How do I know the location of a meeting in Google Calendar?

Tell Me

1. The location of a meeting is listed in the Where field of a meeting.
2. To see the location of a meeting using a web browser on a desktop, single click on the meeting to see the summary of details.
   a. For meetings longer than 30min, the location will be shown on your calendar below the event title.
3. Mobile devices will show the location in the app.

Related FAQs

- How do I request a new room resource for Google Calendar?
- Where will my manager's calendar show up if I have delegated access in Google Calendar?
- What is the difference between a Google Calendar global notification and an event notification?
- If I create a special meeting notification, will guests have the same notification in Google Calendar?
- What do the Google Calendar sharing permissions let people see?