How do I get to my Google Calendar from my Gmail?

Tell Me

In the latest Gmail interface you can no longer enable a small calendar window to appear in the upper left of your Gmail page, but you can open your Google calendar from your Gmail page:

1. Log into your University Gmail account
2. Click on the App Launcher icon (a grid icon) near your email address in the upper right
3. Select Calendar, and your calendar opens in a new browser tab or a new window based on your browser settings

Labs

You can also have a small list of events directly in your Gmail by enabling the Google Calendar gadget lab in your settings; just be sure to read the note at the top of the page.

Related FAQs

- What are the default settings for room resources in Google Calendar? - Old Interface
- How do I reserve a room resource for a meeting in Google Calendar? - Old Interface
- How do I request a new room resource for Google Calendar? - Old Interface
- What is the difference between a Google Calendar global notification and an event notification? - Old Interface
- What do the Google Calendar sharing permissions let people see? - Old Interface